

Mr. and Mrs. G. Heggie Celebrated Ruby Wedding Anniversary

This week was a very special week in the lives of Mr. and Mrs. George Heggie, and their family as well, as it marked Forty Years of wedded life for two of Raymond's early settlers. They were married on September 10, 1912 by Bishop John Anderson here in town.

All of their seven children, their husbands and wives, and all nineteen grandchildren were with them on Sunday to celebrate this occasion at a sumptuous family dinner followed by much visiting and a program put on by the grandchildren. The table, which was centered by a lovely wedding cake, and the room was beautifully decorated with multi colored gladioli.

Their children are Bruce, George, Grant, and John Heggie, Mrs. Bill (Nora) Witbeck all of Raymond and Mrs. Wm. (Ruby) Surenok of Cincinnati, Ohio and Mrs. Dean (Margaret) Ray of Altonah, Utah. Also present at the dinner were Mr. and Mrs. Will Meldrum, Mr. and Mrs. Parley Meldrum, Mrs. May Heggie and Andrew Heggie.

Eileen and Toshiko Hosaki returned to their jobs at the Bake Shop and Mercantile office this week after a two-week vacation in Vancouver.

Mesdames Edith Smith, Fanny Litchfield, Nonavee Jones, Irene Holladay, Martha Woolley and Julie Tollstrup motored to Taber on Friday to attend the Funeral of Weston Platt, 14 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Platt former Raymond residents. Weston was a victim of polio.

Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Fyffe are caring for the infant daughter of Mrs. Fyffe's sister who is a hospital patient.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira McBride entertained at a Family Reunion in honor of Mrs. Anna Woolley on Sunday at which fifty-four members were present. A luscious plate lunch was served, a great deal of visiting enjoyed, and pictures taken during the afternoon.

Young Donny Ralph, son of Mr. and Mrs. Casey Ralph, is very happy to be home again after spending the past three months in Calgary at the Children's Red Cross Hospital.

The Friendship Club met at the home of Mrs. Doretha Roberts last week for their regular meeting at which an enjoyable lunch was served by the hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wendell and Mr. and Mrs. Kim Bullock enjoyed a short vacation in Waterton over the week-end.

The Birthday Club met recently at the home of Mrs. Elsie Mitchell to honor Mesdames Marie Matkin and Martha Taylor who were presented with lovely gifts. An appetizing lunch was served after an evening of visiting and sewing.

Mr. and Mrs. Grant Spackman and son of Edmonton were recent guests at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Spackman.

All the mothers numbered among the 90-odd who will be sending their little ones to school for the first time this year will certainly agree with the sentiment expressed in the above poem that Mrs. ZoBell was kind enough to give us and for which we offer our thanks.

Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Nilsson have visiting them this week, their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Jones of Edmonton. Also visiting them are Mr. Jones' brother Bill and a cousin Miss Kirby of Sault Ste. Marie.

Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Meldrum entertained Saturday evening in honor of Mrs. Hardy Bryner who is visiting here from Price, Utah. After a sumptuous dinner of fried chicken and corn on the cob and all that goes with it, Rook was played by Edith Woolley, Mesdames Emma Dahl, Myrtle Williams, Anna Woolley, Mr. and Mrs. Ira McBride, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Walton, Mr. and Mrs. Golden Snow, Mr. and Mrs. Reid Litchfield and Tom Mendenhall.

Mrs. Bryner, who was celebrating her Twenty-Fifth Wedding Anniversary, was presented with a lovely gift from her assembled friends and relatives.

Art Course Sponsored by Culture Class

—Other Courses Planned

The three-day Art Course under the direction of Mrs. Jessie Ursenbach, assisted by Mrs. Fern Laycock, both of Lethbridge, was a real success.

The sponsors of the Course, the Raymond Canadian Culture Class with Mrs. M. Rayo Woolf as chairman, wish to voice its appreciation for the many hours of instruction and extra help given by the visiting artists. The fourteen students enrolled gained a great deal of experience and some uncovered a real talent in this field.

During the eight lessons in the three days the artists painted an average of two pictures each, mostly of flowers using the real ones as models. Each student was given individual instructions by Mrs. Ursenbach who expressed satisfaction for the progress of her pupils.

Those attending the course were: Barbara McPhee, Kay Rolison, Fanny Walker, D. Mary Hyde, Florrie Palmer, Phoebe Dahl, Donna Spackman, Beth Walker, Phoebe Evans, Nola Attwood, Anne King, Ada Stone, and the two who made it possible for the ladies to be roses among thorns, Wesley Hedenstrum and Donald Grant.

The Raymond Canadian Culture Class have plans to sponsor courses in other of the fine arts throughout the winter months and have already contacted a dance instructor who is prepared to give lessons here to both beginners and advanced students if enough people are interested.

One day during the week beginning September 21st the Raymond Junior Girls Garden Club will hold its Achievement Day. This Club is sponsored by the Raymond Canadian Culture Class and the Alberta Wheat Pool is under the supervision of Dist. Home Economist Lila Engberg with Mrs. John Loqua as local Club Leader.

The same day the Culture Class will sponsor a local Hobby Show and there will also be a travelling Art Display and a Craft Chest shown through the courtesy of the Alberta Culture Department.

As soon as the date is determined it will be made known.

Mrs. O'Brien, who has been a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wes McMullen the past six weeks, left on Monday for her home at Spokane, Washington.

Mrs. T. T. Mendenhall spent the week-end in Macleod visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Rhea and family.

A Prayer For A Six-Year-Old

God bless our little six-year-old,
Who now has started school.
She'll have so many things to learn,
Above all—the Golden Rule.

She'll find it different now, O Lord,
Away from home all day.
Be with her each and every hour;
Keep her from harm, I pray.

It seems impossible she's of age
To leave her homey nest
To go into the big wide world,
Then come home late to rest.

Watch over her, God, and teach her how
With others to get along.
Help her to conquer each new step,
Keep her healthy, pure, and strong.

I know she'll meet more little folks,
She'll mix well with them, I hope.
It's just that she's so tiny, Lord,
And there's so much with which to cope.

God bless our little six-year-old,
May they continue to have this yearning
"To go to school"—and "do what's right,"
As they enter the "Hi-way to learning."

And God bless all of us Mothers, too,
Who have children at school today.
Grant us wisdom, strength, and grace of heart,
To send them merrily on their way.

—Norma ZoBell.

Mrs. Anna Woolley Honored On 80th. Birthday

On Friday about eighty friends and relatives from Raymond and surrounding district called at the home of Mrs. Anna Woolley to honor her on the occasion of her eightieth birthday. Mrs. Emily Blackmore, was in charge of the Guest Book and Mrs. Fanny McBride, Mrs. Mary Bryner, Mrs. Elva Stuart and Edith Woolley served a dainty plate lunch to the guests in a room colorful with gladioli.

To the shower of congratulatory messages already received we add our's to Mrs. Woolley, a real pioneer woman who has spent the past fifty years watching Raymond grow from infancy to the modern young city it is today. During the past half century Mrs. Woolley has been a wonderful neighbor, and a mother to a family of eleven, nine of whom are still living and were present at the gathering of the clan—Carlos, Joe, Roy, Paul, and Edith Woolley, and Fanny McBride, all of Raymond, Mary Bryner of Price, Utah, Elva Stuart and Emily Blackmore of Cardston. Mrs. Woolley also has 32 grandchildren and 39 great grandchildren. Mrs. Rheta Walton is her only sister.

Mrs. Kay Anderson and Mrs. Vesta Anderson were co-hostesses at the Les Ami Club meeting held at the former's home Wednesday evening. Favorite recipes were exchanged and handwork done during the evening, followed by a delectable lunch.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Knapp and family motored to Claresholm over the week-end where they visited friends whom they haven't seen for a number of years. Mr. and Mrs. Brunner.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Strong and Mr. and Mrs. Jack McPhee were Labor Day week-end visitors in Great Falls where they spent an enjoyable time.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Allred were guests in Taber recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Oler.

C. W. Lamb Completes Half Century In Raymond

Our congratulations are extended this week to a pioneer of our Town who, on the 4th day of September, celebrated his Golden Anniversary as a citizen of Raymond. It was late at night when he arrived here and the only mark of identification the spot had was the pile of dirt where the Mercantile now stands.

The day after his arrival it started a forty-eight hour snow storm after which the weatherman blessed them with sixty days of real fine weather. In between the first of November and the first of the year there were another couple of snow storms but on Christmas Day in the year 1901 Joe West plowed his corner lot—a real treat at almost any Yuletide!

The pioneers were not idle during their months of fine weather and among their accomplishments was the construction of the original Raymond Mercantile store, the Hotel, the Livery Barn, the Butcher Shop, Raymond's first Church and quite a number of houses. The big blizzard that came early in January brought a halt to all outside activities until Spring pushed her lovely head above the horizon.

Mr. Lamb will also celebrate his birthday in a few months. He says it will be his 79th, but the Bureau of Statistics claim he is one year older. In either case we wish him a Happy Birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. George Swedish returned last week from a very enjoyable holiday at the Coast where they visited Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Wood at Nanaimo and Mr. and Mrs. M. Nielson at Vancouver. Mrs. Wood and Mrs. Nielson are sisters of Mrs. Swedish.

Mrs. Madelyn Smith of Del Bonita and Miss Thelma Morgan of San Francisco, California are guests this week at the J. L. Larsen home.

Mr. and Mrs. Hyrum Fromm and family are visiting relatives and friends in town this month while guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Deb Oler.

Toni ZoBell celebrated her fourth birthday September 2nd, when a number of relatives gathered to honor her at the parental home of Mr. and Mrs. Bob ZoBell.

Sherwyn Nalder of Great Falls visited at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Nalder over the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Milo Vance and family were among the visitors in Waterton on Labor Day.

Mr. and Mrs. Grant Paxman and son of Glenwood, were visitors with family and friends here this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Bohnet and Bryan motored to Irving, Alberta over the holiday week-end where they were guests at the home of Paul's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Bohnet.

Hospital Auxiliary Notes

The regular monthly meeting of the Hospital Auxiliary was held at the Town Hall, Wednesday, August 13th with President Norma Meldrum presiding.

We wish to make it clear to all that we would like anyone interested, to come to our meetings and join as either active or inactive members.

Mrs. Elsie Mitchell, Mrs. Atha Peterson and Mrs. C. A. Lamb for Donations;

Dolly Holt for mending on July 2nd;

Melba ZoBell, Jane Gurley and Doris ZoBell for mending 21 articles and making 1 compress wringer on July 9th;

Marie Kinsey, Joanne ZoBell, Doris ZoBell and Mrs. Walter ZoBell for making eight bassinet linings with ruffles;

Mrs. Ball, Bessie Lybbert and Mrs. Anne Turner 16 articles mended on July 16th;

We also wish to thank the Municipal Hospital Board for their complete co-operation in every respect.

Anyone having any articles they would contribute to the Hospital Auxiliary for a forthcoming Bazaar would find it eagerly welcomed.

Mr. and Mrs. Marion Hale and family of Hollywood, California, were visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Orrin Turner for a few days this week. Mrs. Hale is the former Thirza Turner.

Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Palmer and family of Lethbridge were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Meldrum over the week-end.

FACTORY!

The plant you see pictured here is a sugar beet. There is little resemblance between it and a table beet—the sugar beet is highly pedigreed, wedge-shaped, much larger, and has silver-white flesh. It is also one of nature's most efficient factories. From the sun, the water, and the soil, the sugar-beet manufactures up to 25% of its weight in pure sucrose—C12, H22, O11 or table sugar as we know it. All the man-made factory does is extract this sugar, eliminate all impurities, and crystallize it in various controllable sizes. The balance of the plant is used in the finishing of livestock. In Western Canada the sugar beet has had an important effect upon the stabilization of agricultural economy. You can keep it so by looking for the Maple Leaf on the sugar you buy.

Free Trees For Alberta Farmers

Trees from the Alberta Department of Agriculture, for farm planting in 1953 should be ordered now. Many applications have already been accepted and late comers may be disappointed. The chief requirement is that the trees must be ordered and the land summerfallowed in the year previous to planting. Application forms may be obtained from district agriculturists or from the Fields Crops Branch, Alberta Department of Agriculture, Edmonton.

P. D. McCalla, Supervisor of Horticulture, advises that caragana, Manitoba maple and green ash may be obtained in any reasonable quantity. Colorado spruce, white spruce and lodge pole pine are also available at the rate of fifty to each applicant. A few less common shrubs and trees, grown at the Brooks Horticultural Station, can also be obtained on application to the Field Crops Branch. They include mayday tree, flowering plum, Chinese bush cherry, apple seedlings and several others. These last can be supplied only if other windbreak trees and shrubs are being planted.

Planting and Care of Peonies

1. Time—as near September 10-15 as possible.
2. Soil—any good garden loam, preferably on the heavy side, but mellow and friable to a depth of three feet.
3. Location—full sun or slightly shaded, in front of shrubbery but well away from trees and grass.
4. Planting—eyes two inches below surface.
5. Care of Peonies
 - (a) Must have ample moisture during heavy growth and flowering. Get water down two feet if possible.
 - (b) Must have good drainage.
 - (c) Must have plenty of plant food.
 - (d) Cut off tops and burn in fall to lessen disease.
 - (e) Spraying with bordeaux or dust with lime-sulphur if botrytis is present.
 - (f) Young plants have most vigor so old plants should be divided every six or seven years.
6. Varieties—Consult local growers, nurserymen, and nearest Dominion Experimental Station.

WEAVING THE WORLD'S LARGEST TAPESTRY

When the Cathedral of the City of Coventry, in the English Midlands, which was destroyed by enemy bombing during World War II is replaced by a new structure, a huge coloured tapestry designed by one of Britain's most famous artists, Graham Sutherland, will hang behind the High Altar. It will be the biggest ever made, some 62 feet high and 46 feet wide. Making a loom for it will be something of an engineering feat, and it may be necessary to knock two studios into one. The six artist-weavers will have to set up an intercommunications system if they wish to talk to each other while they are at work.

The first step will be the artist's straight painting of the design; this will then be enlarged to scale and the colours copied and sent to the dyers. When all the materials are ready the weavers will begin, working behind the tapestry to a reflection of the weaving in a standing mirror. They start at the foot of the tapestry and work upwards, winding the warps down from a roller as they weave. The warps are stiff woolen fibres knotting together the pattern which is already etched into the wool in Indian ink.

The finished tapestry will weigh about three-quarters of a ton and 1,400 lbs. of Cheviot wool will be used in it.

THE NEW RAYMOND RECORDER

FOR PARENTS ONLY

By Nancy Cleaver

"Promises and pie-crust are made to be broken," Dean Swift wrote in "Polite Conversation." But this cynical remark cannot be accepted by any responsible parent. Fathers and mothers want their children to be faithful in fulfilling their obligations. The surest way to train a child to keep his word is to keep your own promises.

An experienced parent is hesitant about making any promise which he may not be able to fulfill. It is so easy to promise and often so difficult, when other things crop up, to match the performance with the promise.

An adult quickly accepts that a sudden violent thunder-storm makes a picnic impossible. But to a child, a promise is a promise. If Mummy promised a picnic on Saturday afternoon, it's a small comfort that because of the rain, the picnic will have to be held on another Saturday!

The child lives in today. Now is the important time. The more mature person accepts a change in plans, so long as he can look forward to a future pleasure. A grown-up can take a disappointment in his stride without it clouding his whole day.

What about a promise of punishment? Should the parent carry out his word that he will make the child suffer for a piece of wrong-doing?

Threats are not a good way to discipline a youngster. This "I'll get even with you in the future for being naughty now" poisons the home atmosphere.

It is particularly unwise for the mother of an active pre-school child to declare in exasperation over a mischievous act, "Just you wait till your daddy gets home from work to-night. He'll attend to you!"

This promise that the other parent will administer correction is unfair. The mother is in charge and the situation should be dealt with right away. One parent should not promise that the other parent will deal out punishment.

In an effort to control their child's behaviour, many parents employ bribes. They reason that surely the promise of a reward will keep their child out of mischief. The catch about this system is that the bright youngster keeps demanding bigger and better bribes. The other difficulty is that if bribes are often used, busy parents frequently have a hard time fulfilling their reward commitments.

Threats or bribes which are made and seldom carried out should never be used. If the parent is always saying what he is going to do, but seldom doing it, a child soon learns to pay small heed to his parents' word. "Aw, Mum says I'll get a spanking when she gets me home," a saucy youngster in a department store said to the clerk, "But she'll forget by the time we get there." Another little girl said to her chum, "Daddy has promised me new figure skates if I come first in my report card—but I know if he doesn't have a good month at the office, he'll say that figure skates are much too expensive!—I'll have to wait another month, and he'll see what we can do then."

It is quite true that once in a very long while a parent may make a promise to a child which he finds it is impossible to carry out. On the other hand, something may happen which will show that the promise was an unwise one. What should a parent do then?

If a child can understand that, "In our family we keep our promises. We can trust each other because we know that we can bank on our word," he is also old enough to discuss this situation with his parent. Mothers and fathers do not need to try to live up to a "Perfection Picture" of themselves in their child's eyes.

They can, however, take their child into their confidence and say, "I always do my best to carry out a promise, but I find with this particular promise I can't quite make it," or "Everyone makes mistakes, and this time I am sorry to say, I promised you something which isn't a very good idea." Then the parent can mention why that particular promise is impossible to fulfill or was an error and suggest some possible substitute.

Children are very quick to grasp a situation. They are also good judges of character. One father recently told a friend that one of the things in the past year which made him happy was when he overheard his small son saying to a playmate, "My daddy keeps his word."

BROADCASTING THE CORONATION

A series of important preparatory programmes designed to introduce the Coronation to Canadian listeners is being planned by the British Broadcasting Corporation.

Starting in October there will be a number of programmes for those listeners who are planning to visit London during the Coronation. The programmes will advise them on best way to travel, where to stay, facilities offered by such bodies as the Youth Hostel Movement, national parks and preservation of the countryside.

After Christmas there will be a series of about 12 weekly talks on some of the famous houses and Royal residences and this will be followed immediately by another series of six programmes describing the character and function of the Yeomen of the Guard, the Sovereign's Escort, the Guards of Honour and the other offices of State which the Coronation brings into special prominence. Similarly, a revival in February of a recent programme "The Court of St. James", will tell listeners about some of the offices of the Royal household. The voices of Her Majesty the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh will be heard in "Royal Occasion"—a programme in which recordings of their memorable broadcasts will be linked together to form a short radio biography.

The religious and constitutional significances of the Coronation and the place of the Crown in the history of Britain and the Commonwealth and in the hearts of the people will be the subject of several programmes from January to April.

Historic buildings along the route to be taken by the newly crowned Queen will be featured and a special programme will be devoted to Westminster Abbey.

On June 2 everything possible will be done to convey to listeners all over the world commentaries on the procession, the ceremony in the Abbey, and all the attendant pageantry and excitement.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert ZoBell and family, visited over the week-end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Garth Galbraith, of Pincher Creek.

Mr. and Mrs. Wicky Burrows moved to Milk River this week where they will make their home.

Growing Fall Rye

In Western Canada, Fall Rye is generally considered a poor cousin of our more important cereal crops—wheat, oats and barley. In recent years, however, the interest of farmers in growing fall rye as a cash grain crop has increased appreciably.

Although fall rye can be grown successfully on all types of soil, it is probably most suitable for the lighter lands in the drier areas of Western Canada. Like all other cereal crops the highest yields are obtained on fallow land. However, damage from winter-killing is much more likely to occur on fallow than on stubble land.

Date of Seeding. The highest yields of grain have been obtained by seeding fall rye between August 15 and September 15. Indications are that September 1 is the most favorable time for seeding on light soils. The date of seeding on stubble will depend upon moisture conditions. Unless there is sufficient moisture in the soil to support a fair growth in the early fall, seeding of rye should be delayed until near freeze-up.

Rate of Seeding. Extensive tests at the Experimental Station, Swift Current, indicate that the rate of seeding of fall rye should be from 3 1/2 to 1 bushel per acre. The rate of seeding on stubble is the same as for a crop on fallow. The best depth of seeding is from 2 to 3 inches. Very deep seeding or seeding in loose ground should be avoided, for it tends to increase the amount of damage from winter-killing. When seeding fall rye on stubble it is not necessary, nor generally advisable, to work the land previous to seeding. If any tillage operation is undertaken before seeding, machines should be used which will tend to leave all the stubble in an upright position. This will help to hold snow on the land and to control soil erosion.

FARMERS... GET A SUND RAKING PICKUP

CHECK THESE FEATURES

1. Can be attached to any make of combine-harvester, either tractor drawn or self-propelled.
2. Its exclusive, patented tooth action insures a clean complete pick-up whether the crops are light or heavy.
3. This patented feature of the SUND RAKING PICKUP also permits a raking action accomplished by the forward motion of the teeth, three rows of which are constantly in contact with the ground.
4. SUND RAKING PICKUP will salvage the major portion of a crop damaged by hail or sawfly except that which has been shelled out. It can pick up such a broken down crop without the necessity of cutting it.
5. Teeth leave ground before starting upturn thus minimizing the chance of picking up stones.
6. Full 7 feet of effective pick-up width enables it to pick up scattered windrows.
7. Flexible Beater is another exclusive SUND feature which prevents to a large extent long grain or vinelike weeds from winding around the mechanism.
8. The floating suspension also permits correct adjustment which secures uniform pressure of teeth to the ground throughout a large range of up and down movements.
9. The necessity for frequently raising or lowering the platform is eliminated and this permits one man to operate combine and tractor.
10. This suspension also raises the front end of the pickup automatically when turning a corner.
